

PRAYER AT THE SENDING OUT OF THE EUCHARISTIC MINISTERS TO THE SICK AND HOUSEBOUND

Priest: Almighty and loving Father, as we have received your Son in this Holy Eucharist, we ask you to hear our prayer for our brothers and sisters:

All: Give your healing, Lord, to those who are sick and housebound.
May those who take the Body of Christ to them
also be a loving sign of our prayers and thoughts.
Keep us united with them in all their sufferings
so that we will grow together as one community with the presence of Christ among us.

Hail, holy Queen, Mother of mercy,
hail, our life, our sweetness and our hope.
To thee do we cry, poor banished children of Eve;
to thee do we send up our sighs,
mourning and weeping in this vale of tears.
Turn then, most gracious Advocate, thine eyes of mercy toward us,
and after this our exile, show unto us
the blessed fruit of thy womb, Jesus, O clement, O loving, O sweet Virgin Mary! Amen.

Lord, teach me to be generous.
Teach me to serve you
as you deserve;
to give and not to count the cost,
to fight
and not to heed the wounds,
to toil and not to seek for rest,
to labour and not to ask
for reward,
save that of knowing that I do your will.

Focus on Faith: “But when God, who from my mother’s womb had set me apart was pleased to reveal his Son to me.” - Galatians 1:15

Life is precious. All life is precious: pre-birth, post-birth and after-life. So precious that we are individually set apart by God from our mother’s womb to have his Son revealed to us! Thank you God.

Paul (formerly Saul), the author of Galatians, is one of my go to guys. I go to Paul when reflecting on my past and ongoing conversion. Paul is the Apostle who continually reminds me of my personal invitation to conversion and transformation while encountering the revelation of Jesus Christ. I go to Paul when I am convicted of persecution. I also go to Paul when I need guidance for evangelization.

Today’s readings are packed full of why life is precious. In 1 Kings and Luke we hear about living and dying and just how close the two are related. In both stories, the women experiencing the death of their sons had already experienced the death of their spouses. They were widows. I recently attended the 90th birthday celebration of a dear woman. Along with her, were several other women, all widows. They talked about how they still felt the presence at certain times of their deceased loved ones. One of the woman had such a big smile as she told us her experience of her deceased spouse. She would fall asleep in her chair at night and he would tap her shoulder to let her know it was time for bed. She says that sometimes she still feels the tap.

As I read and re-read both of these two stories, my focus continually turned towards spiritual death rather than physical death. Jesus is available to touch us today and return the life breath to our soul. God continues to visit his people. Thank you God.

“You changed my mourning into dancing;

O LORD, my God, forever will I give you thanks.” - Psalm 30:11

St. Columba 521-597, Born probably in Donegal Ireland of royal descent he studied at Moville under St. Finnian then in Leinster at the monastery of Clonard under another St. Finnian. He was ordained before he was twenty-five and spent the next fifteen years preaching and setting up foundations at Derry, Durrow, and Kells. Possibly because of a family feud which resulted in the death of 3000 and for which he considered himself partly responsible he left Ireland at 42 and landed on the island of Iona off the coast of Scotland. There he built the monastery which was to become world famous. With SS Canice and Comgall he spread the gospel to the Picts; he also developed a monastic rule which many followed until the introduction of St. Benedicts. He died on Iona and is also known as Colm, Colum and Columcille. Feast day is June 9.

A man went to a pet store to get a fish. He noticed a strange, coloured fish and asked the owner what the fish was called. “That’s a parrot fish,” said the owner. “It sings like a bird.” The man looked doubtful so the owner told him he could bring the fish back if he wasn’t satisfied. A week later the man returned to the store to return the fish saying “You were right. The fish can sing. But, he’s horribly off key, and it is just too difficult to tuna fish.”
